Mani Montazemi, RDMS is the clinical manager at Texas Women’s Hospital in Houston Texas. His extensive involvement in Sonographer education includes; various positions with the SDMS, Journal of Ultrasound in Medicine & Journal of Diagnostic Medical Sonography. Mani has acted as an ultrasound consultant to the Society of Vascular Ultrasound, as well as international ultrasound associations. He is a nationally recognized leader in ultrasound technology. Mr. Montazemi returns to Michigan by popular demand to bring his unique style of communicating complex anatomy, physiology and imaging techniques to our members.

Liz Lawrence, RDMS, RDCS, RVT

Liz has served on the Michigan Sonographer’s Society in various roles since 1975. She graduated from Oklahoma University in 1975 with a Health Science Degree in Diagnostic Ultrasound. She has been involved in ultrasound education from the beginning of her career; publishing the first ultrasound review book in 1979 to help prepare new graduate sonographers for the ARDMS exams. She has been an adjunct professor at Oakland Community College, Baker College and The Carnegie Institute. Her RVT and RDCS Study Groups have helped many sonographers pass their board exams since 1996. As owner of Choiceone Medical Staffing since 2008, she continues to help sonographers in Michigan advance their careers.

Robert Alan Welch, MD, MSA, FACOG, C-EFM is the Director of Maternal Fetal Medicine at Hurley Medical Center. He is a Professor of Obstetrics & Gynecology, Wayne State University School of Medicine, and Clinical Professor of Obstetrics & Gynecology, MSU School of Human Medicine. He began performing amniocentesis in 1984 and chorionic villus sampling in 1993. Dr. Welch was named a Senior Member of the AIUM in 1997. He has published over 40 peer-reviewed studies, written 18 book chapters and continues as a reviewer for multiple medical publications. He has 11 medical patents, one of which, the self-capping needle, continues to be in common use today. His current research interests include the impact of marijuana on the developing fetus. We are honored to have Dr. Welch speak to our members.
